2016-2017 FILM & LECTURE SERIES

Presented by Tucson Waldorf School

Project Wild Thing: Reconnecting Kids with Nature | Documentary Film

Wednesday, October 19th 6:00 - 8:00pm. PROJECT WILD THING is a film led movement to get more kids outside to reconnect with nature. This documentary takes a funny and revealing look at a complex issue, the increasingly disparate connection between children and nature.

Roam Free. Play Wild. Teacher led discussion to follow film.

Ellersiek Games: Finger Plays for Young Children | Parent and Teacher Workshops presented by Lynn St. Pierre.

Saturday, November 5th, Parent Workshop 9:00 - 10:30am, Free and Open to the Public

Teacher Workshop 12:00 - 3:00pm, Open to the Public, $30 Fee, scholarships available.

Lynn St. Pierre presents the Ellersiek work, finger plays and movement games designed to enhance developmental opportunities and support sensory development in young children, at Waldorf teacher trainings and parent workshops throughout the world.

The Art of Discipline | Presentation and Discussion

with Grades and Early Childhood faculty.

Wednesday, February 8th 6:00 - 7:30pm. Join our faculty for discussion of discipline through the years. Topics addressed will include: What is the relationship between rhythm and discipline in the early years? How do parents address the wide range of behaviors at different stages with the appropriate response? What is the difference between punishment, discipline, redirection and consequences? What should I expect from my child at each stage of development?

Screenagers: Growing Up In The Digital Age | Documentary Film

Wednesday, April 26 6:00 - 8:00 pm. It's never too late or too early to start thinking about the effects of screen time on your child and family. SCREENAGERS is a feature documentary that explores the impact of screen time on kids and offers parents proven solutions that work. Teacher led discussion to follow film.

Programs are intended for an adult audience.

All events are open to the public.
